Experience Gifting Market Size 2015-2027F (£bn)¹

Outlook

- 2024 likely to be a year of more stability and modest (but not strong) recovery
 - Inflationary headwinds abating
 - Consumer confidence improving
 - Consumer disposable income improving – but only slowly and may be 2025 before a stronger pick-up in this
- Reversion to long term growth of c7% likely given favourable fundamentals – but probably only from 2025 onwards
 - Preference of experiences over product – particularly for millennials and younger gifters
 - Development of experience gifting in new categories / verticals

Best view suggests experience aggregators segment revenue in 2022 was 27% larger than pre-COVID (ie 2019) – but fell by 5% over 22-23 with consumer income squeeze

Experience Aggregators Segment Size 2019-2027F (£m)¹

H1 CY22 had strong growth vs 2021 (as it annualised a 2021 period impacted by COVID)

H2 CY22, had revenue decline vs previous year as economic headwinds on the consumer impacted the segment / channel

This nets out at c14% growth vs 2021 – which is equivalent to a channel that is 27% larger in revenue terms than in was in 2019 (ie a 9% CAGR in underlying growth)

Revenue fell by c5% in 22-23 as consumer disposable income headwinds impacted overall gifting spending and discretionary spending

OC&C view that Experience Aggregator segment sent for long term growth at high single digit low double digit growth rate – but growth likely to remain modest in 2024 while consumer disposable income recovery still at an early stage
